Clearing Sale of Men's Clothing

In a business as great as this, clearing sales to close out accumulated odds and ends of regular stock are of rather frequent occurrence; for, Suits and Overcoats oming in and going out every week, there is no other way to keep the lines of sizes and styles complete.

The special offerings in clearing sales are made up chiefly from our regular lines, with the missing sizes filled in to some extent by the addition of several lots recently closed out from high-class manufacturers, thus making the assortment unusually good for a sale of this sort. As it is in any clearance salo, some values are greater than others, and early buyers are likely to get the best. The Suits We bought from a first-rate maker who made too many. We know all about them. They are right, and the bargains are the best of this

THE TOUCH DOES IT

Benson's Plasters are like your other friends—they hate to see you in pain or in weakness and are dog-tired hearing you complain about it. They want to cure you and sond you along to your business—whole and happy. They can do it and self do it. Try them on. What for? Why for any yough or gold you may be troubled with, or any bothering pain or sach, or worry with kidneys or liver. Possibly asme eld clutch of muscular rheimatian renders an arm ey a leg worth only half price just now. For any bother has been maken the mention of it clap a Bemson's Porone Plaster squarely on the bad spot. They are the get-out to-merrore plasters—not the sort that go to sleep on your skin like a cat on a cualion. There is comfort and speedy relief in the touch of them. No other external remedy, no matter how made or how called, is worthy to live in the same street with Benson's Plasters. Pains and alments melt away under them as a sheet of ice does under the Spring sun. You cannot forstell the weather but you can always forstell the effect of Benson's Plasters; it is as sure as the effect of a hot breakfast in a hungry man's stomach. But look out for substitutes. VOTE BUYING The Every Evening confesses to great surprise at the following extract from an editorial in last weeks Dover Index: Vote-buying in Delaware, for the last eight or ten years, has been one of the main issues which has characterized the efforts of both the principal political parties in this State. It is a notorious fact that the Republican party has bought votes. It is equally notorious that the Democratic party has bought votes. Both have been guilty of the of-fense and the only remaining element in the question to be considered is that of degree."

Common sense should teach every one that in order for this iniquitious practice to thrive as it does in the two lower counties and apparently as openly as any other business, that both parties must do it and thus be precluded from prosecuting their oppo-

But vote buying is not and has not been confined to the Kent and Sussex Counties, as is evidenced by the news columns of Every Evening in every campaign As a matter of fact the Democrats have used money in nearly every primary election held in recent years. If not, why their heavy assessmentson candidates. The Republicans have assessed their candidates but not more than ten per cent of the amounts levied by the Democrats. In nearly every district in this county there are some "floating" voters, and they do not attempt any concealment of the fact that they are paid. Then again many efforts have been made to cor rupt the colored vote, but so far without success. Only sixteen months ago, the papers were full of the attempt made by a prominent county official to purchase the votes of certain colored men. The great trouble is and has been that there has been no honest effort to convict persons guilty of this offense. In every case of near town. brought by the former Attorney General there were plain evidences of persecution. Let the present Attorney-General have two cases, one a Democrat and the other a Republican brought before him, and if the proper evidence is forthcoming conviction

In the list was the name of Jacob Smith, colored, of Mill Creek Hundred, and in casting his vote for this candidate, Mr. Armstrong called attention to the fact by saying, 'I voted for him before and will do so again." It was said last year when Mr. Armstrong as one of the "combined" voted for Mr. Smith that he did not know that he was colored. We wonder what excuse will now be made to the "white man's party."

I asked Representative Crumpacker of Indiana one day last week for a statement in regard to his efforts in the line of reduction of Southern representation in Congress. "Our plans are somewhat misunderstood," said Mr. Crumpacker, "largely because of the misrepresentation of the opposition press. It should be clearly understood that we have neither the intention or the desire to interfere with the negro question. We are simply attempting to enforce the letter and spirit of the constitution. For reasons, into which we do not inquire, a large number of adult males in certain. sons, into which we do not inquire, a large number of adult males in certain states are not granted suffrage and at the same time the representation in those states is based on population instead of upon the number of voters as the constitution clearly provides it should be. We simply propose to investigate the number that have been denied the suffrage and opportion the Congressional representation to the number who, in the judgment of the dominant party, are qualified for suffrage. There should be no complaint against this whatever. It is entirely just and proper and in no way interferes with action of any state in determining who is and who is not qualified to exercise the right of suffrage."

"Well, it's ridiculous," laughed Edith again. "You see, she's so brown—so very, very brown."

"Yee," replied young Blount, turning his gaze for a moment toward the object of their remarks, "she certainly is brown."

And then, bringing his gaze back again, he allowed it to rest somewhat critically and very admiringly on the fair maiden lying in the hammock, and his thought was:

The vote will take place to-day and there is considerable likelihood that the Committee on postoffices and post roads will be instructed to report a revised bill maintaining the service on the salary basis. Representative Newlands of Newdaa, Williams of Mississippi, and sevada, will shought was:
